£42M RELIEF RIVER BOOST

A FLOOD defence scheme to divert water away from Oxford has been given a major boost with £42million of government funding.

Prime Minister and Witney MP David Cameron announced the news in Osney on Tuesday as part of £2.3billion of investment in national flood defences.

Chancellor of the Exchequer George Osborne allocated the funding as part of yesterday's 2014 Autumn Statement.

The construction of the four mile Oxford Western Conveyance is now £20m away from meeting the £120m build cost.

Construction is due to start in two to three years' time.

Mr Cameron described the funding as "really good news" for Oxford.

He added: "The government is doing its bit by funding the Environment Agency and making available the money.

"I am sure now local councils will come forward, the money will be found and the work will begin and this long term plan will be put in place."

Botley Road and Abingdon Road shut due to flooding in January and February this year.

jack.johnson@oxfordmail.co.uk

and Mr Cameron says there are measures in place for this winter.

He continued: "In the short term there are temporary flood defences and they can be effective, they can help to prevent flooding on Osney Island for instance.

"These facilities are there and more can be done but the real thing people in Oxford want to see is a long term solution and that is what the Western Conveyance represents."

The Oxford Western Conveyance would run from near Seacourt Park and Ride in Botley Road south west around Oxford to the River Thames at Sandford Lock.

Oxford West and Abingdon MP Nicola Blackwood said: "It is really outstanding news because we can start giving the 7,600 families and businesses who are affected by flooding on a daily basis some peace of mind and get our city moving again no matter what the weather."

Sex trafficking arrests at Oxford guest house

POLICE say they are in the early stages of investigating reports of sexual exploitation in Oxford after two people were arrested following a warrant at a Cowley Road guest house last Thursday.

Twenty Thames Valley Police officers searched the Athena Guest House at 8pm on November 27 after reports of prostitution and sexual exploitation in the city.

A 45 year old man and a 26 year old woman were arrested on suspicion of intentionally arranging for people to enter the country to engage in sexual exploitation.

As the Oxfordshire Guardian went to print they were both in police custody.

Police officers also searched seven other properties across the city on November 27 while officers also held a warrant for a house in Cowley Road on Friday night after separate reports of possible prostitution and sexual exploitation.

Sgt Neil Applegarth from the East Oxford Neighbourhood Team said: "We are in the very early stages of this investigation and so I ask if anyone has any information to contact us immediately.

By Jack Johnson
jack@oxfordmagazines.co.uk

"Officers will continue to patrol on Cowley Road, so if you have any questions relating to this operation, please don't hesitate to approach them."

Five women were taken from the guest house and will be offered support by trained police officers.

Local Policing Area commander Supt Chrishan Bunl added: "We take every report of possible prostitution and sexual exploitation extremely seriously and will continue to target premises across the city which are involved in this kind activity."

The arrests came after seven men were jailed for a minimum of 35 years in June 2013 after being found guilty of raping, facilitating child prostitution and trafficking of young girls in Oxford.

They were convicted at the Old Bailey in London in May 2013 following a two-year investigation into child sex exploitation called Operation Bullfinch and a four month trial.

Anyone who has information should call police on 101.

Serious assault

OXFORD A 25 year-old man has been left hospitalised with serious head injuries after an assault in Bonn Square on November 26.

The assault happened shortly before 3am and a 26 year-old man has been bailed until January 26 after being arrested on suspicion of causing grievous bodily harm with intent.

The victim is currently in a serious but stable condition at the John Radcliffe Hospital in Headley Way.

Witnesses should call police on 101.

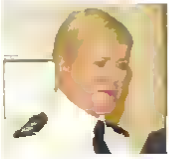
Chief's new role

OXON The chief constable of Thames Valley Police Sara Thornton (pictured) has stepped down to become the chair of a new association for senior police officers.

She will begin her new role as head of the National Police Chiefs' Council in April 2015.

Ms Thornton said after 14 years she leaves Thames Valley Police with a "heavy heart".

She added "I could happily stay here but there is a sense of which it is time to move on and face a new challenge."



Brewery plans

OXFORD A new brewery could be set up in Oxford if a crowd funding scheme proves to be successful.

Brewer Steve Chroscicki is planning to move to premises beneath the post office in St Aldates if he is able to raise £185 000 from supporters.

He said "We came on a week end break here and were surprised at how cosmopolitan and busy it was.

"It seemed like a good place to open a brewery."

If the funding is gathered which Steve is hoping to have completed by the end of January the brewery could open soon afterwards.

City to get share of £114m cycle fund

OXFORD has been named as one of eight cities set to receive a share of a £114million grant to improve cycling provision in the city.

Deputy Prime Minister Nick Clegg announced the recipients of the Cycle City Ambition Grant last Thursday to fund the development of local cycling networks.

It follows previous investment into improving cycling in Oxford, such as the £835 000 given by government for work at The Plain roundabout in the city.

David Nimmo Smith, Oxfordshire County Council's cabinet member for transport said: "This is excellent news for cyclists in Oxfordshire.

"We are currently drawing up plans to create a fully connected cycling network to encourage existing and new cyclists to cycle more often."

He continued: "This will allow for a greater range of transport methods, hopefully taking more cars off the roads and improve traffic flow, improving journeys for all users in and around the city."

The other cities competing for a share of the grant are Bristol, Birmingham, Cambridge, Leeds, Manchester, Newcastle and Norwich.

Mr Clegg said: "The inspiration and legacy of the 2012 Olympics and the Tour de France starting in Yorkshire this year has started a revolution in cycling for everyone.

"Now we need the public and local authorities to jump on their bikes and get us to the finish line."

Vale set to decide on West Way's future

A PLANNING committee were recommended to approve the £100million plans to redevelop West Way in Botley last night despite widespread objections.

The Vale of White Horse District Council's planning committee met as the Oxfordshire Guardian went to print.

Officer Stuart Walker had recommended the developers Doric's plans for a supermarket, cinema, hotel, gym, shops, 50 flats and 525 student rooms for approval with 49 conditions, hailed to the application.

The development would see West Way shopping centre, Elms Parade shops, Field House sheltered housing and the empty Elms Court office block demolished.

Residents group West Way Community Concern has been campaigning against the plans and objected on grounds of over development.

Oxford City Council objected, as well as North Hinksey and Cumnor parish councils.

Nicola Blackwood, MP for Oxford West and Abingdon, was also opposed to the plans due to its scale, density and appearance and the impact on local businesses.

She added "I think a lot of people in the constituency will want to know that we are still working as hard as we can on getting this flood relief scheme signed, sealed and delivered.

"There is another £20million which needs to be found

"Ifbetween the different local partners, which would include Thames Water Network Rail and the Local Enterprise Partnership that £20million can t be found then simply these partners can t be trying hard enough"

Rodney Rose deputy leader of Oxfordshire County Council said the government funding puts the scheme on the "right road"

Carnival's Christmas fundraiser

A CAROL service raising money for the annual Cowley Road Carnival will see Christmas tunes ringing from the halls of St Mary and St John Church on Sunday.

Carols for Carnival, a community event with traditional readings and carols, will begin at the Magdalen Road church at 3.30pm on December 7.

All money raised from the day will go towards the summer Cowley Road Carnival with organisers hoping to raise £120,000 across various events for next year's festivities.

Organisation Cowley Road Works run the carnival.

Executive director Danielle Battistelli said: "Carnival is all about celebrating our vibrant community on the Cowley Road.

"So forget the shopping this Sunday and rejoice in the season with us instead."

Next year's carnival will be held on July 5 and Ms Battistelli added: "We are already well into planning for next year."

Carnival is about community, and we want to get as many community organisations involved as possible."

A34 improvements given the go ahead

By Adam Flinn
adam@oxfordmailnewspapers.co.uk

IMPROVEMENT work at two Oxford junctions on the A34 is set to go ahead after £50million of government funding for the projects was announced on Monday.

The Pear Tree and Botley roundabouts will be upgraded in an attempt to improve traffic flow on the busy dual carriageway through Oxfordshire.

Money will also be spent on electronic signs and CCTV cameras to warn drivers of congestion and divert them to another route.

And a feasibility study into the possibility of constructing a link road from Oxford to Milton Keynes and Cambridge was also announced, as well as the possibility of making the Lodge Hill junction in Abingdon a diamond interchange.

Oxford West and Abingdon MP Nicola Blackwood met with culture secretary Sajid Javid at the Pear Tree roundabout on Monday morning to announce the A34 investment.

She said: "I am absolutely delighted that we've managed to convince the treasury at last that we need investment on the A34.

"The immediate improvements to the Pear Tree and Botley roundabouts will really reduce accidents and therefore congestion.

"And also the traffic management system will enable drivers to plan their journeys much more effectively, so if they're at Newbury they will know if there's an accident as far up as junction 9 of the M40.

"This is what I've fought for over the last two and a half years, and is what the residents of Oxford West and Abingdon who have been sitting in traffic misery needed to hear is on the horizon."

Mr Javid added: "A key part of having a growing economy having more jobs, is having a modern infrastructure.

"So it's not just good from a quality of life point of view, but it's also hugely important from an investment and jobs point of view.

"If we want the jobs and investment in the Oxford area and elsewhere in England to continue, we need to keep investing in infrastructure."

• Nicola Blackwood and Sajid Javid made the announcement at the Pear Tree roundabout on Monday

The news comes as work is due to begin next month at the Milton and Chilton interchanges in the south of the county, and as upgrades to the Hinksey roundabout are expected to finish.

Details about the Botley and Pear Tree roundabout improvement work will be announced in due course.

Bicester set for £100m garden city expansion

BICESTER is to get garden city status with up to 13 000 homes the government announced on Tuesday

Deputy prime minister Nick Clegg revealed the £100million plans as a measure to build more affordable homes

It is understood the homes would be built on brownfield land close to the Iowu cur rently owned by the Ministry of Defence

Money would be used to improve road infrastructure around Bicester including junc tion 9 of the M40 and for a new railway station

Mr Clegg said "The Liberal Democrats have long argued that garden cities are an idea whose time has come again

I am delighted Bicester can now be confirmed as a pioneer in what I hope will be another wave of garden cities in this country

"This is a significant victory for the approach championed by the coalition government, where local areas put their hand up and say we want to become a garden city or town"

Garden cities are a form of urban planning that sees houses built in self-contained communi ties surrounded by greenbelt land.

Ebbsfleet in Kent was announced this year as the first modern garden city to be cre ated following in the footsteps of Letchworth and Welwyn in Hertfordshire

North Oxfordshire MP Sir Tony Baldry added "I very much welcome the proposal that Bicester should become a garden city

"It obviously makes sense to build as many new houses as possible on brownfield land and to minimise the amount of new housing development in Cher well that has to be built on green fields

"It will make Bicester a com munity with the potential to be one of England's most exciting communities as we go forward into the 21st century

But the news received a mixed reaction on Twitter with Patri cia Brayshaw writing about the news "I live in Bicester and won't be chuffed 'til the roads are sorted. Bicester Village causes chaos each weekend"

David Kempster wrote "New garden city for Bicester right idea plenty of space good access new job hub but needs delivery"

And Stuart Crow tweeted "Nobody asked Bicester if it wanted to double in size"

'John Lewis wins festive ads contest'

AN OXFORD academic has predicted department store John Lewis will be the big winner this Christmas as a result of its Monty the pen guin ad

The country s big stores and supermarkets have released their festive adverts to encourage shoppers through their doors

And professor Nancy Puc cinelli an expert in consumer marketing at Oxford Univer sity s Said Business School ruled John Lewis £7million advert will come out on top

Prof Puccinelli said "The John Lewis ad which doesn't really focus on specific prod ucts but does present an idealised rather up-market picture of a family Christmas will do very well"

However according to Prof Puccinelli Boots Sains bury's Tesco and Waitrose will struggle to attract more customers through their adverts

She added "The current Sainsbury s 1914 and Boots Boxing day ads are interest ing because while they both feature heart warming sto ries I dou t think they tap into the idea of indulgence which is what will get consumers spending more

The Waitrose ad contains a sweet story but its message seems to be rather a utilitar ian one"

Charity website wiped by anti-Israel hackers

AN OXFORD BASED charity website was hacked and its content deleted just days after it won a national award for its work.

Healthtalk.org was taken over by an anti-Israel hacker collective on November 23, just six days after winning the Good Web Guide's charity website of the year award.

The site is now back up and running normally, but the charity's chief executive Lucy Carrington-Lowe is at a loss as to why their website was attacked.

"It was very hard to believe and inexplicable, we can't understand why we would be targeted," he said.

"The website supports hundreds of people every day so obviously our first priority was to get the site back up quickly.

"With just three staff it could have been a nightmare but luckily we had a viable back up from a few days before the hack took place."

Healthtalk.org was launched in 2001 by the late Oxford GP Ann McPherson, and reaches audiences of 2.3million people per year.

It was set up to document people's experiences with various illnesses and health conditions after Dr McPherson found she couldn't find anyone to speak with about what it was like to have breast cancer.

After being hacked on the Sunday the website was fixed and online again last Wednesday.

Lucy added: "We're relieved that the website is back online reaching those who need it."

Princess Royal pays a visit to Oxford to mark YOS's birthday

PRINCESS Anne made a special visit to the county last Friday to celebrate the 15th birthday of a youth offending service.

By Jack Johnson
jack@oxfordmail.newspapers.co.uk

The Oxfordshire Youth Offending Service (YOS) which was set up by the county council in 1999 brings together victims of crime and offenders to restore justice.

As well as celebrating its birthday the Princess Royal also presented the group with a Quality Mark for Restorative Service award at its Oxford Business Park base.

The award confirms the YOS is providing a safe and sustainable restorative service.

Oxfordshire County Council's cabinet member for children, education and families Melinda Tilley said she is proud of the service's work.

She continued: "This is a very positive and public confirmation of the Youth Offending Service's work, and of course a great honour.

"We are proud of the service's history, and of its innovative and child-centred approach.

"The Restorative Justice Quality Mark demonstrates that the public can have confidence in what we do."

During last Friday's visit Princess Anne met staff and learnt about the service's work.

The YOS works to prevent re-offending, encourage people to take responsibility for their actions and reintegrate offenders into the community.

Thames Valley Police works closely with the service and chief inspector Mick Saunders believes it plays a key role.

Ch. Insp. Saunders said: "Oxfordshire's YOS is a genuine community asset.

"Whilst highly responsive to victim needs the team here work in close partnership to address successfully the individual needs of offenders, however complex.

"The YOS has played a key role in reducing youth offending and creating life opportunities."

Cassington dad set for Channel plunge

A DAD of two from Cassington will take to the chilly and jelly fish ridden waters of the English Channel in 2016 to raise money for a teenage cancer charity.

Piers Lewis, 46, who works as a self employed gardener and clay shooting instructor, plans to complete the 21-mile challenge in July 2016.

He says his wife Susanna thinks he is a "little bit silly" for agreeing to the challenge while his sons Oliver, 4, and Harry, 6, aspire to follow in their dad's swimming strokes.

Mr Lewis, who currently trains at the lakes near Bernsfield off the A415, hopes to raise £20,000 for the Teenage Cancer Trust but admits he is nervous about the challenge.

He said: "I am laying bricks every time I think about it.

"The jellyfish, the boats, the cold water, hyperthermia is quite a big killer.

"There are a million and one things to take into consideration and talk to a lot of people about and you rely on the support boat to get you to the other side."

jack.johnson@newspapers.co.uk

Mr Lewis said he chose the Teenage Cancer Trust because he has friends who were diagnosed at a young age.

He continued: "Cancer is quite a big thing.

"Everybody has been touched by cancer and you pull the heart strings when you bring children into any situation.

"The channel is one of the ultimate challenges you can't put your feet down and you have to keep going."

He will now spend the next 18 months juggling training and open water swims around his work and family life, as well as working on adjusting his body to the challenges of the channel waters.

Mr Lewis, who could spend 14 hours swimming, added: "It's endurance just being able to swim for that period of time.

"You have to be able to train in 14°C and Bernsfield is well below what I need to swim but if you can get your body accustomised to that shock, the more so the better."

Albert named as runner-up Hero

A THAMES Valley Police (TVP) horse that was in the running for a top animal award has just missed out on claiming the main prize.

Albert, a 17-year-old Irish draught cross, was named runner up at the RSPCA and Daily Mirror Animal Hero Awards last Wednesday.

He had been nominated for his work at demonstrations between members of the English Defence League and anti fascist protestors at a rally in Brighton in 2012.

And despite losing out to police dog Fuzz in the public sector category, Albert was still able to spend the evening meeting celebrities including singer Alexandra Burke and TV presenter Bill Oddie.

PC Kevin Simmons, from TVP's mounted section, said: "We are ecstatic that one of our horses was recognised for the work that they do for us.

"It was a privilege to be amongst such amazing people and animals and hear their heart warming stories."

He has also worked at numerous events including the Olympics as well as protecting members of the royal family.

And after his evening out at Grosvenor House in London for the awards ceremony, Albert was back to work patrolling in Milton Keynes the following afternoon.

Contraflow misery coming to an end

• Work on the southern bypass was due to finish last week

By Adam Flinn
adam@nqlernewspapers co.uk

THE contraflow that has caused traffic misery in south Oxford since the summer is due to be removed on Monday

It has been in place since July while resurfacing work was car ried out on each carriageway

Work had been due to finish in early November but was delayed by four weeks which Oxford shire County Council put down to bad weather

But the council announced yes terday that the contraflow would be removed this coming week

It also revealed that other major roadwork schemes across the county would be suspended from Monday until the New Year to help ease congestion over the busy Christmas period

"This will be welcome news for anyone who has been caught up in congestion while roadworks are being done" said council leader Ian Hudspeth.

"It's a good news] also for trad ers and businesses keen to make the most of the busiest shopping time of the year

"For a number of years Oxford shire County Council has worked closely with utility companies and our own workforce to ensure that non-essential jobs are not done for almost a month over Christmas

"This is done so that the busi est time of the year for many retailers and members of the public is helped to be success ful thanks to improved traffic conditions

Exceptions to the scheme are the roadworks on Worcester Street in Oxford which will con tinue until December 15 while the resurfacing of London Road in Headington will continue over Christmas

Work to complete the Kenning ton roundabout and Hinksey Hill Interchange which has been carried out in conjunction with the southern bypass improve ments is expected to finish on December 19

The council said that some lane closures at off peak times would be put in place between Monday and December 19 while traffic lights are installed and lines are painted on the roads

Busy mayoral month

WITH Remembrance Sunday and Armistice Day early last month and with 2014 marking the 100th anniversary of the start of the First World War many events have had a mil tary theme

One of which was the annual Remembrance Sunday Parade and service

t was pleased to see such a large number of people watch the parade and attend the service at the town war memorial

t have been honoured and humbled to be invited to take part in some commemorative events

Such as the tree planting at Edmonds Park as well as the rededication of the role of honour at the Didcot Railway Centre

Towards the end of the month it was time for another Didcot annual tradition, the Christ mas Street Fair which was organised by the Chamber of Commerce

Once again it was an excel lent event and was well attended

It was a very busy evening for Penny and I and we enjoyed it all

More information about my activities is on my blog on the Didcot Town Council website at didcot gov uk.

And as this will be my last column for the Oxfordshire Guardian before Christmas I would like to take this oppor tunity now to wish you all a very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year

Futures Partnership event hailed a success

A BUSINESS-EDUCATION collaboration is giving Oxfordshire college students valuable hints and tips on making a start in the world of work.

The collaboration is between Witney Business & Innovation Centre and Abingdon & Witney College and is known as the Futures Partnership.

By Kelly Lea
news@taylornewspapers.co.uk

Its latest initiative saw a class of 17 BTEC Level 3 Business students link up with business people, including representatives of locally based Wolf Productions, Smooga, Fabulous Biker Boys and Otamula.

Students from Abingdon & Witney College with local business representatives at the Futures Partnership event held by Witney Business & Innovation Centre

Students were given advice about job hunting, the application process, interview skills and following up.

The event culminated with the opportunity for the students to put their networking skills to the test.

Joe Crampoll Messiou, 16, from Witney said: "Today has given me an idea about what I'd like to do in the future and how I should approach an employer who has a job that really interests me."

Ellie Sarahs, 17, from Bampton added: "We have had the opportunity to meet people from a lot of different industries which will help with our careers."

Students were also treated to an inspirational keynote speech at the collaboration event by Chris Allington, MD of Oxford Innovation.

He said: "I hope that some of what I shared with the students today inspires them to become our next generation of entrepreneurs."

The Abingdon & Witney College Witney Business & Innovation Centre collaboration is supported by the centre's landlord, Blenheim Palace.

New support to save pubs

RURAL communities support organisation the Plunkett Foundation, has announced a new support package to help communities save their local pub as a co-operative.

Funded by the Department for Communities and Local Government, the £50,000 package will enable the Plunkett Foundation to deliver help to the growing number of communities across England at risk of losing their local.

Already operating a specialist advice line for co-operative pubs, the Plunkett Foundation will now be able to extend support even further to include specialist advice, funded study visits, mentoring support and peer-to-peer learning.

Plunkett's chief executive Peter Couchman said: "We're delighted to be able to extend support to communities looking to save their pub as a co-operative for the whole community to enjoy."

Treading Dangerously

As Weather Worsens, New Research Finds One in Ten Cars Haven't Had Their Tyres Checked For a Year

MORE than 62 per cent of the UK's drivers are unaware of the legal minimum tyre tread depth and one in ten (12 per cent) haven't checked their tyres in the last year, according to new research carried out by leading used car website NFDA www.trusteddealers.co.uk Trusted Dealers.

Despite the success of October's fifth annual Tyre Safety Month, the research, which surveyed 1,000 motorists on how regularly they undertake essential tyre maintenance, showed little more than a third of the road users know that the minimum tyre tread depth should be 1.6mm. When equated to the 30m motorists on British roads this means more than 18m drivers have no idea if their tyres are roadworthy.

The survey also revealed a shocking 12.4 per cent of drivers last checked their tyre tread depth more than a year ago - even though fortnightly checks are advised to ensure safety and avoid potential fines of up to £2,500 plus three penalty points for illegal tyres.

According to figures released by the Driver & Vehicle Standards Agency (DVSA), more than 2.2 million cars failed their MOT test last year due to the condition of their tyres. Whilst figures released by the Department for Transport (DfT) showed that more than 988 UK road casualties in 2013 were caused because of illegal, defective or under-inflated tyres.

Neil Addley, director of franchised dealer-owned used car website NFDA Trusted Dealers, said:

"It's worrying that so many drivers are unaware of how to ensure their tyres are roadworthy, particularly when you consider the fact that these four pieces of rubber are the only things separating you from the road.

"As we approach the winter months, tread depth becomes even more important. Although 1.6mm is the minimum legal tread depth, we often advise investing in new tyres once the tread reaches 3mm to ensure safety. You can reduce stopping distance by more than a car length when breaking on tyres with a 3mm tread depth, rather than the legal minimum of 1.6mm. We'd always recommend drivers replace their tyres before they become fully worn.

"An easy way to safeguard against dangerous tyres is to remember to check tread depth and tyre pressure the first time you fill up with fuel each month. If you have any queries, concerns or if you're simply looking for advice on your tyres, then get in touch with your local franchised dealer who will be able to help. You can also sign up at our website for a free 'Tyre Tread Depth Checker'. This handy credit card sized device can be kept in your purse or wallet, to make sure you're always reminded.

NFDA Trusted Dealers recommends drivers undertake the following checks when filling their tank for the first time each month:

Tyre Tread Depth: Trusted Dealers has produced a free handy credit card sized guide to measure tread depth which you can request by visiting www.trusteddealers.co.uk/tyres. Alternatively you can use the quick 20p test to check this: Insert a 20p coin into the lowest tread depth of your tyres. If you can't see the outer rim around the edge of the coin, then your tyre is safe and has a minimum of 3mm tread depth. If you can see the rim then your tyre fresh is less than 3mm and should be checked by a professional.

Tyre Pressure: Trusted Dealers recommends checking your pressure (including the spare tyre) weekly or at least monthly to increase road safety and prolong the life of the tyres. The correct tyre pressure can usually be found printed on the inside ledge of the driver's door or inside the petrol cap. To check the pressure take off the dust cap on the valve, fix on the pressure gauge and take a note of the result. Then inflate to the required pressure and reconnect the dust cap.

If you have any concerns about your tyres, your local franchised dealer will be able to help. Register for your free tyre tread depth checker at www.trusteddealers.co.uk

Puzzles

Sudoku

The objective is to fill a 9×9 grid with digits so that each column, each row, and each of the nine 3×3 sub-grids that compose the grid (also called "boxes", "blocks", "regions", or "sub-squares") contains all of the digits from 1 to 9. The puzzle setter provides a partially completed grid, which for a well-posed puzzle has a unique solution.

Embrace the music

By James Richings
james.richings@oxfordmail.co.uk

ALTERNATIVE indie band Embrace are hoping to bring a "whole new level of unpredictability" when they appear at the O2 Academy tomorrow night

The five piece consisting of brothers Danny and Richard McNamara, Steve Firth, Mike Heaton and Mickey Dale are biting the Cowley Road venue from 6.30pm on December 5.

Lead guitarist Ricky says the band "throw everything" into their live shows and tomorrow's gig in Oxford will be no different.

"We tend to throw ourselves into it when we play live and there is definitely a sense of flying by the seat of our pants" the 42 year old said.

"We've got to recreate the sound of the albums and our music tends to be quite dense and lush sounding which can be a bit of a challenge as there are just the five of us.

"I think the most fun we have is when we engage the audience.

"That adds a whole new level of unpredictability that makes each night unique."

Embrace formed in 1993 and lured drummer Mike and bass player Steve after advertising at a Bradford music shop and in a local newspaper.

Despite only releasing six albums in 21 years the West Yorkshire based group have enjoyed success.

All of their albums have peaked at 10 or higher in the UK album charts with three reaching number one.

They also recorded "World at Your Feet" the official 2006 World Cup song for England which peaked at number three.

And singles "Gravity" and "Nature's Law" hit the UK charts at number seven and two.

Whatever happens the band will be hoping to at least perform in Oxford this year after an unfortunate turn of events saw them cancel a gig at Oxford Brookes University.

"I think the last time we were due to play Oxford Steve our bass player had food poisoning so we had to cancel!" Ricky added.

Tickets cost £21.50 and the event is suitable for anyone over the age of eight.

Bella's set for Didcot

FOLK musician, singer and songwriter Bella Hardy is bringing some festive sparkle on her return to Didcot's Cornerstone Arts Centre this Saturday.

The 30-year-old from Derbyshire is performing at the Station Road venue as part of her UK December tour which begins tomorrow in Leicester.

Bella, who was voted 2014's Folk Singer of the Year by BBC Radio 2, will perform a selection of Christmas songs and can't wait to return to Didcot on Saturday night.

"I've visited Cornerstone a few times now, most recently with my band when we released my last album 'Battleplan' in the spring of last year," she said.

"It's always a welcoming place and it's really friendly.

"There's a very special feeling at Cornerstone, so it's going to be lovely to bring my December tour there."

Bella will perform a selection of well-known Christmas songs as well as other popular covers.

She added: "The audience can expect everything from a waltz version of Slade's 'Merry Christmas Everyone' to 'Have Yourself a Merry Little Christmas'.

"They can also expect a Rare Naked Ladies cover to traditional carols from my native Derbyshire.

"I'll also balance it out with a few non-festive numbers from my album 'Battleplan' and previews of some new songs."

Finally, the singer revealed her plans for when her tour finishes.

"I'll head straight back to the Peaks, heat up some mulled wine, put on some Bing Crosby and collapse in a heap of tinsel," she said.

The show starts at 8pm with tickets costing from £13.

It's the most wonderful time of the year!

IT'S now the start of December, so the countdown to December 25 is well and truly on

We are now three weeks away from Christmas, which means you have got three weeks to make sure you have got everything planned before the big day

I know what you are thinking, three weeks? That is plenty of time!

However, if you leave everything too late, weeks turn into days days turn into hours and before you knew it, it's Christmas Eve and nothing has been prepared

This is the last thing we want to happen to you.

We want everyone of you to enjoy Christmas this year by getting the presents decorations and food that is right for your plans and preparations.

At Christmas, you want to spend quality time with the ones that you love and cherish the most, and we want you to achieve that.

So we spoke to a few businesses around the county to see how they can put your Christmas dilemmas to rest.

French manufacturers Citroën unveil the new eye-catching C4 Cactus crossover

It's no SUV or regular hatchback

CITROËN S new C4 Cactus sports an unusual name and equally unusual design – but what is it exactly?

Despite the semi raised ride height, the beefed up plastic bumpers and wheel arches it s not an SUV or a regular hatchback

FACTS at a glance

Citroen C4 Cactus PureTech 110 S&S Flair
Price £17 190
Engine 1 2 litre three cyl turbo
Transmission Five speed manual front wheel drive
Power/torque 108bhp/205Nm

REVIEW Citroën C4 Cactus

By Philip Shoulder

A crossover would perhaps be a more accurate description putting it in competition with the likes of Nissan's Juke

The eye-catching exterior's key feature is the unique Airbump technology black plastic moulded side panels designed to protect the Cactus flanks from parking dents and scratches

A plethora of exterior personalisation options including different door mirror colours and alloy wheel styles are offered on all three different trim levels Touch Feel and Flair

The equally stylish interior is de cluttered and minimalist with very little switchgear aside from two LCD displays

Stand out features are the 'Top Box' storage compartment, and door handles inspired by leather luggage straps

All Cactus models come as standard with a four speaker audio system DAB tuner and Bluetooth media streaming, as well as air-conditioning, seven inch touchscreen and cruise control.

Once behind the wheel most people will find the driving position to be comfortable although the steering wheel adjusts for height but not reach.

The Cactus boasts a spacious cabin and the 358 litre boot is large and well shaped although would benefit from a false floor to bridge the entrance lip

The New Citroen C4 Cactus gets six different engines

All diesel models are sub 100g/km of CO2 and are eligible for free VED in addition to a VED exempt petrol version – the PureTech 82 S&S ETG

This 103bhp 1 2 litre turbo petrol picks up eagerly from low revs and enjoys being worked hard, while the 80bhp version is better suited for urban journeys

The manual gearshift isn t the slickest in town, but the car s more comfort orientated setup results in a smooth and forgiving ride

Refinement impresses, too

Verdict

Citroen s new C4 Cactus is a master of bold clever design, functionality and weight saving efficiency

Burnell encouraged by Exiles' progress

• Tuisone Vea goes over for London Welsh (picture by Martin John)

LONDON Welsh head coach Justin Burnell believes his side are making progress after an encouraging display against reigning Aviva Premiership champions Northampton Saints last Sunday

The Exiles were condemned to a ninth straight league defeat following last week's 43 14 loss at the Kassam Stadium

However despite all the positives in their attacking play Welsh were left to rue the first half sinbinning of Ricky Reeves as Saints racked up three tries in the prop's absence to take a commanding lead.

Burnell who was also encouraged by what he saw in the 26 6 defeat to Leicester Tigers a week previously saw plenty of positives in last

By Jack Johnson
jack@taylornewspapers.co.uk

Sunday s performance

He said "People spoke about last week's performance against Leicester but I thought we made better progress on Sunday

"We had some good intent, we had some good go-forward and our speed of ball was good

"It was a vast improvement from where we have been

"I was pleased with certain aspects of the game

Burnell added "I do think we ll pick up some wins

"When we came in to the league the pace and physicality hit us for six at the start but we're now making a steady progression

"We re a very honest bunch and you can see it

"We won t roll over and we didn t on Sunday"

Despite enjoying lots of possession and threatening the Saints line, Welsh trailed 12 6 when they went a man down in the 35th minute.

Burnell added "Against team like Northampton – a quality outfit – you just can t do it

"We had ball we had good intent and then to concede the points like we did.

"Discipline is a major factor and at this level when you go to 14-men gaps will appear and that's what happened."

May frustrated by Exiles' indiscipline

TOM May said London Welsh paid for their indiscipline as they went down 43 14 to Northampton Saints last Sunday

Welsh trailed 12 0 when Ricky Reeves saw yellow in the 35th minute and the reigning champions ruthlessly exposed their one man advantage to run in three tries either side of the half time whistle

May said. "It's tough enough to play against Northampton with 15-men let alone 14. We ultimately paid for that.

"We made some improvements; we need to keep hold of the ball in the right areas of the field

"But they re a top team and they're not going to let us off the hook.

"Our indiscipline cost us "

He continued "We have to be on top of our game, whether that be defensively or in attack, and our discipline

"We can t let teams have easy access to the ball.

"There's lots to take from all over the game"

London Welsh take a break from the Aviva Premiership on Sunday and make the journey to the Murrayfield Stadium to take on Edinburgh Rugby in the European Rugby Challenge Cup

Thumping win for City versus Lewes in FA Trophy

OXFORD City thrashed Lewes 6 1 at home on Saturday to move into the first round of the FA Trophy

Three goals in the first quarter of an hour courtesy of Felipe Barcelos Adi Yussuf and Alejandro Santiago gave City a commanding lead

Nick Wheeler pulled a goal back for the visitors just before the break to keep them in the match

But second half goals from Santiago Kynan Issac and Declan Benjamin ensured that it will be City who face Wimborne Town in the first round of the competition on December 13

It was City s third win in succession in all competitions and are unbeaten since their defeat against North Ferriby United on November 1.

And City currently sit seventh in the Conference North standings with 31 points after 20 games

They are not in action this weekend, with the FA Trophy fixture being their next game, before returning to league action versus Hyde on December 20

U's disappointed not to come away with the win

ROSE FOCUSES ON POSITIVES AFTER DRAW

OXFORD United midfielder Danny Rose said there were plenty of positives to take from last Saturday s 1 1 draw at Chel tenham Town but admitted it was an opportunity missed

Unitedare four games unbeaten in all competitions and be 19th in Sky Bet League Two

Cheltenham keeper Trevor Carson kept United at bay last weekend as the Robins started life under new manager Paul Buckle with a draw

But Rose believes United deserved to come away from Whaddon Road with more than a point

The 28-year old told the club "They're plenty of positives to take from it and the only negative is that we conceded a goal

But we reacted better (to the goal) than we have done in the past and that is a big positive to take"

Rose added We knew they were always going to have their tales up and want to try and impress the new manager

"They did start quite brightly but I also think we dealt with it pretty well

By Jack Johnson
jack@taylornewspapers.co.uk

"We dominated for 70 minutes of the game and we feel a bit upset that we should have come away with the three points "

Cheltenham took the lead on 51 minutes through Byron Harrison but United took little time to respond with Tyrone Barnett drilling home an equaliser nine mnoutes later

Michael Appleton s side dominated the remainder of the game but Callum O'Dowda Jac Riley and Danny Hylton were all denied by Carson.

Barnett who has now scored three goals since joining on loan in September felt a win would have put United in good shape ahead of Saturday's FA Cup second round tie at home to Tranmere Rovers

The 29 year old said. "I thought we were unlucky not to come away with three points

"We are so disappointed not to get the win.

It would have been even better going into the FA Cup "
